

John K. Delaney, Ph.D. is the Senior Imaging Scientist at the National Gallery of Art, where his research focuses on the application of remote sensing methods to assist in the study of works of art. He is also a Research Professor in the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering, School of Engineering and Applied Science, The George Washington University, DC.